On the Clute trail two runners Bradish and Firby, have set out on the Revillon route. They have entered an arrangement similar to that concerning Clark's party.

Meanwhile, having made a scouting trip for the airmen to Clute and beyond, the correspondents have a special train waiting with steam up at Cochrane to move to Mattice. A word comes from Clark or his men. The trip, with a clear line insured by the railway company, is expected to take less than three hours. The pressmen then will set out on dog

Veteran Officers Tell Harding of Plan to Create Large Reserve Force

Marion, O., Jan. 7.—Officers of the American Expeditionary Forces have communicated to President-elect Harding their views of how the United States can establish a large army reserve without resorting to universal military service.

The delegation of former officers was composed of Lieutenant-Colonel Noble M. Judah, Rainbow Division; Colonel Martin B. Tackett, Third Division; Lieutenant-Colonel John B. Hammond, Tenth Division; Colonel Henry J. Hally, former commander of eighty-third infantry, all of Chicago, and Lieutenant-Colonel Earl Kimm of Kansas City, Thirty-fourth Division.

Police of Two Continents Are Searching for Trophy Given by President of France

New York, Jan. 7.—A great silver vase, valued at $5,000 which was presented to the Knights of Columbus by President Millerand of France, disappeared in transit from Paris and the police of two continents have been asked to assist in tracing it. It was announced at national headquarters of the knights here.

The vase was presented at the farewell banquet tendered to the Knights of Columbus Lafayette-Joseph Pignoni at the Elysée palace in Paris last September. It was carefully packed and shipped to Havre to be placed on the steamship Lafayette on which the pilgrims were to return to the United States.

There the trail ends, the French authorities at Havre show no view of receipt of the valuable package there. James A. Phelan of Philadelphia, supreme knight, has called the Knights' European commissioner, Edward L. Heary, asking him to have the French police search for the vase. Heary also under way here to discover whether the vase could have arrived in this country.

The vase is five feet in height and about three feet in diameter. It is inscribed with an elaborate Mosaic design. The vase is a masterpiece of French ceramics to be the best specimen produced since the war.

STUDENTS PROTEST CARETAKER'S REMOVAL

Lawrence, Jan. 7.—Students of the Lawrence High School, much incensed over the removal of James Murphy, caretaker at O'Sullivan Park, the school playground, went as a committee to City Hall to ask the city to retain the caretaker, who is a favorite with the pupils.

The students were informed by the new administrator that it was a personal matter and that he would act as he deemed best.

COUPLE WED ON SHUBERT STAGE

Chorus Girl Married to Musician After Show by Assistant Registrar

Wedding bells rang out on the stage of the Shubert Theatre at last night when Genevieve Clinton, one of the chorus girls, was married to Everett Schneider, the saxophone player of the Winter Garden orchestra.

General Manager A. Tosen Master of the Shubert theatre was master of ceremonies. James Barton, leading comedian of "The Passing Show," was best man, and Edith Carter, star of "The Midnight Rounders," gave the bride away.

Joseph Cahalan, assistant registrar at City Hall, performed the ceremony. Members of "The Passing Show," "Midnight Rounders," "Maytime" and Walter Henderson, comedian playing the several Shubert theatres in Boston, attended the ceremony. Tony Lyons, stage manager of "The Passing Show," was in charge of the rice throwing brigade.

J. J. Shubert telephoned from the Winter Garden in New York, giving the happy young couple his congratulations. Following the ceremony there was a midnight supper at the Copeland. At which Manager Tosen presided. The bride is a New York girl and the groom comes from Chicago.

HUSBAND HUNT ENDS AT JAIL

Hartford Wife, Deserted Four Years, Finds Him Convicted of Buffalo Murder

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 7.—Helen May was notified today that her husband, Raymond, for whom she has been searching four years is awaiting death sentence in Buffalo for the murder of Abraham Yello, a merchant of that city.

Sentencing of Raymond was delayed two months after his marriage, but has been deferred pending the trial of his two companions Raymond was wanted in Palmer, Massachusetts, where he shot a policeman, who detected him breaking out of a store in that town.

WOMAN'S MEMOR GOES BACK 16 YEARS

Lawrence, Jan. 7.—That a woman's memory in the first of married life is seldom faulty was demonstrated in the divorce court here in the case of Mrs. Abner Piche of this city, who sought a divorce from her husband on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

She told the court at her husband, Abner Piche, gave her the first time a few days after their marriage and that the marriage occurred in Lewiston, Maine, twenty-four years ago. She was corroborated in many of her statements regarding the cruelty of her husband by their twenty-year-old sister. She was granted the divorce.

Quakes Re-Creating World, Says Savant

By Universal Service.

Paris, Jan. 7.—The world is in process of being made over climatically and geologically, as a result of recent tremendous seismic disturbances in the Arctic Seas and Northern Asia, according to a statement today by an eminent scientist, Professor Guillaume Bigourdan, president of the Committee on Longitudes.

"We are traversing a period of volcanic disturbance similar to that occurring before the creation of a mountain, and which caused the disposition of the present continents," said Professor Bigourdan.

"While we need not anticipate any great alterations in the earth's surface there is undoubtedly a possibility that new groups of islands may appear in the Pacific Ocean and that others may disappear. The cycle of volcanic evolution is likely to extend for a period of hundreds of years, possibly completely transforming the geological and climatic conditions under which the earth is governed."

These disturbances may be expected in a zone of subterranean fire extending from the Mediterranean Sea to the Indian Ocean and across Asia, Russia, involving the entire Pacific Coast line of the American continent, which will likely be particularly affected. However, recent earthquakes and eruptions of volcanic volcanoes are unlikely to result in severity those of two thousand years ago.

Shoes, $100 a Pair, Made at North Adams

North Adams, Jan. 7.—Shoes that are to retail at $100 and $150 a pair have just been made at a local factory. The $100 shoes were made of black patent kid of the "pat" type, have golden eyes and fasteners and the $150 shoes were made of black patent kid with gold trim.

On the bottom of each is affixed a $50 gold piece. These $100 pair are of "top" material and, besides gold trim, have a red gold watch strap, set into the side of the left shoe. Both pairs of shoes were designed by Albert Doyle and are to be part of an exhibit of 1000 pairs of shoes to be entered by the local company at the National Hat and Shoe Convention to be held in Milwaukee next week.

SAYS WADE "HAS MIND OF BOY"

Alienist Testifies Slayer of Nott Is "Emotionally Shallow"

test were simple examples in addition, such as "How many are 2 and 4 and 8?"

"The boy is not at all seriously abnormal," said Professor Cassell, "but he is emotionally shallow."

"He did not have brains enough to deceive me in the tests, even if he wanted to."

"I do not think he was capable of holding both right and wrong when he killed Nott. I do not think it was a very emotional control to think of the possible penalty. He was probably overcome by an irresistible impulse."

Professor Cassell said Wade's insanity took the form of a mental defective of a constitutionally inferior type.

BLOW AND UNBALANCED.
"He is deficient in self-control and cannot reasonably meet the demands of family and community life."

The alienist continued that while in some mental tests the swelling defendant measured up to the average of boys of 12, in other respects he was not even so far advanced.

He explained that Wade's faculties were abnormally balanced, and his emotional abnormally slow.

During the trial, the alienist hypothesized question, or that part of it relating to the presence of insanity in the family of Wade's mother, Mrs. Wade, senior, shook with color.

The handsome nation, with her devotion to her son for his own good, is and has been the most pitiful woman figure in the trial, and has attracted the most sympathy.

But if his mother showed emotion, Wade showed none. He looked calmly at the floor, the spectators, everywhere but at the jury or the alienist whose words had such fatal results for him.

Indications were that today's proceedings would develop into a battle of attrition. The defense and the State have two.

There are other witnesses to follow, and it seemed today as if the trial would last into the middle of next week.

BLACKHAND LETTERS FROM EX-SOLDIER

New York, Jan. 7.—A former army man is suspected of being the writer of blackhand letters received by Mr. J. Butler Duncan of Hempstead, L. I., and other prominent businessmen of the former soldier's writing and letters sent to Mrs. Duncan, and compared by an expert, were said to have been written by the man in question. The suspect is regarded as "harmless." Letters were received by Mrs. Deborah Miller, wife of the polo player, and Mrs. E. E. Hubbard, who lives in the bank. "He demanded $5,000," the letters "said at the time." "Directly to me," it said, "I will be at your service." Threats were made that if money was not given the women's lives would be blown up.

"They WORK while you sleep"

Weeping Mrs. Nott Is a Human Puzzle

By ANNE DUNLAP.

Bridgeport, Ct., Jan. 7.—A slender, nervous woman is here in the courtroom where Elwood B. Wade is on trial for murder. The slain man was her husband, George E. Nott. Mrs. Nott, the accused man's inamorata, must face a trial for murder in the same case.

What a strange woman she seems to be! She is pretty, in the dark type fashion. But the wonder of her face is all in her eyes. Every day since the trial began she has wept almost continuously in the courtroom. She is so weak that she cannot walk unaided.

Yet looking on this frailty one must remember that it was this woman who looked on while her husband was beaten and stabbed and shot to death. It was she who sat in her bedroom with her two children while outside her door the body was stuffed into a trunk; she who helped to wash up the blood-stained gown and the bloody shirt.

"I was married when I was sixteen," she said today. "I was married when I was sixteen."

Did not like his starchy. And later, when Wade turned his chair squarely around in the morning, she said that he might fear his eyes on her and give her his peace. She begged the attendant near her to make him leave her in peace.

The effort failed for the benefit, it would seem, of the spectators in the courtroom.

"Keep that fellow back turned the other way," she said.

Yet watching at the trial consider the slender of the man who says that the woman of his heart should be, but in time of trial pale as the white lead of guilt on her slender shoulders, while she in her turn shakes her slender finger of crime and mercy to the court.

"I did not see the knife, I did not push it to him. I did not help put it in the trunk. I never think it was he who did it."

ASK BLUE LAW TO STOP SUNDAY TRAINS

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 7.—A bill to prohibit the running of any passenger or freight train on Sunday has been introduced in the Tennessee Senate. It is said that this is the first of a series of bills which will be offered this session. Sunday sports the buying and selling of newspapers and the operation of all classes of stores, save those of dire necessity, would be banned.

Discusses Efficiency Plans With Kahn and World War Veteran Officers

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 7.—A study of drums and flourish of trumpets were discarded today in favor of earnest discussion when the future commander-in-chief of the army of the United States considered the efficiency and welfare of the men soon to be under his direction. Senator Harding went exhaustively into the military policy of the country with Representative Julius Kahn, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Representative Kahn, it is understood, placed before the President the plan of the majority in Congress for cutting down the expenses of the army and outlined the extent to which he thought the United States could be reduced without danger to national defense.

Senator Harding, it is known, expects that economy can be attained and is insistent that it must be obtained without damage to the nation. In discussing preparations with officers who saw service in France, he suggested that he intended to appoint a Secretary of War who would be capable of producing results desired.

The delegation, which consisted of Lieutenant Colonel Nott, J. J. Quinn, Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Hanson, Colonel Henry J. Kelly, all of Chicago, and Colonel Carl Kienow of Kansas City, urged on the President-elect that he reduce the term of enlistment in the army from five years to one. This policy, they said, would turn out into the life approximately 150,000 trained men a year. They also advised compulsory military training, but it is asserted that Senator Harding himself favors a system of voluntary training.

LEXINGTON LEGION POST TO ENTERTAIN

The men of Lexington interested in the Stanley Hill Post, No. 28, American Legion, will be guests of the post at a stag supper, to be given at the Lexington Town Hall, January 25. The Legion is to give the affair. There will be an entertainment, installation of officers, speaking and refreshments.

Daniels Stumped by "Moose" Dog

Washington, Jan. 7.—At least one thing has been discovered about the Navy department dog that he is stumped. The Secretary of the Navy has admitted that he is completely puzzled by the repeated references to the moose dog that he is supposed to have added in some manner in the recap of the three most worthless who landed near Moose Factory, Ont., after a flight of 500 miles from Rockaway Point, L. I.

The secretary then admitted that he is stumped. Down in New Carolina, where he comes from, they have all about some dogs and rabbit dogs and even hound dogs, but a moose dog—what is it?

TURK LEADER IN WILSON'S WAY

Chief of Nationalists' Forces Defiant and in No Mood to Talk Peace

London, Jan. 7.—Serious obstacles, if not failure, is indicated for President Wilson's effort to mediate between Turkey and Armenia by an interview with Mustafa Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, which was received today by Daily Express.

Mustafa Kemal Pasha is adamant against the allies, and is in no mood to make peace.

This interview was the first official word from the Nationalist leader since the government at Ankara entered into an alliance with Soviet Russia.

A correspondent sent a message to Mustafa Kemal Pasha, asking him his terms of peace. The Nationalist leader's reply was:

"Everything is in the hands of the great National Assembly, formed for the purpose of legitimate defense following the attack made against the existence of our nation by the imperial frontiers and preserve the seat of the Khalifat and Sublime for the Turkish people."

"Our demands are no more than right for our independent existence. This Assembly's contentment it will succeed in resolving the nation from capitalist and imperialist domination and restores the national power and sovereignty."

AGREE TO NEWS BY NAVY RADIO

Committee Will Recommend to Congress Facilities Be Given Newspapers

Washington, Jan. 7.—An amendment to the existing radio law authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to enter into yearly contracts with press associations and newspapers to handle news dispatches from abroad over naval wireless facilities will be recommended to Congress, by the House Merchant Marine Committee, it was indicated today.

The difficulties now experienced by the American press in getting news dispatches over the cables from Europe were discussed at a hearing on a resolution by Representative Eitzen, providing for the use of the naval wireless stations for press matter.

It was formally agreed that an amendment to the present law would be easier to get through the House and Senate than a new resolution. The radio companies have no objection to the plan and a majority of the committee is said to favor it.

Testimony by representatives of the radio companies and the press showed that but one phase of the problem remains to be worked out. This is a definition of press message. Under the International Radio convention, press messages are limited to matter actually intended for publication. This rule prevents the transmission as press matter of service messages between press associations and newspapers and their correspondents at sea.

The United States is not a signatory to the convention, but some arrangements must be made whereby the stations on the other side will accept service messages as press matter.

Two Little Hidden Dimples "Valuable as Government Bonds!"

"Descending Night," by Adolph Weinman, from an inspiration accidentally aroused by Miss Munson on her first visit to his studio.

Audrey Munson, most famous of all American artists' models, is seen in endless variety in Libraries, Museums, private galleries, town and country residences, public buildings, churches, bridges, fountains, public squares, parks and private lawns and estates throughout the length and breadth of the country.

For the Boston Sunday Advertiser, Miss Munson has written the story of her life, the incidents and episodes behind the scenes in the studios, the unknown history of the inspiration of many masterpieces in public and private art collections, the strange eccentricities and methods of the artists—and the distressing tragedies of pretty models who lacked moral balance to safeguard them from the perils of the intimate atmosphere of the studios.

Audrey Munson is the girl in whose face Francis Jones found the purity and sweetness he needed for the stained glass angels in the Church of the Ascension in New York.

If you know any young beauty who yearns to be an artists' model—or any mother, uncertain what to do about such a daughter—advise her to
